

Please do not limit the State's ability and power to reduce the number of sales calls to my home. I am a single mother, and the time I have at home is very precious and extremely limited. My kids use to try to screen those calls for me, but they always call back. We resent the invasion on our privacy. The no-call program initiated in Indiana has provided me with serenity in my home that I have not had for a number of years. If it goes away, I will consider cancelling my phone service & using my cell phone instead. I will not pay for a phone line that allows the constant flow of solicitors during my time with my family. Its an invasion of privacy that should not be allowed and it invites fraud. There are other ways for businesses & not for profits to sell the products & services.
